A mysterious boy named Noah in search of family and belonging appears in the background of pictures with families he isn't a part of to find who he belongs with.

Synopsis

- Noah joins pictures with people he doesn't know in search of a place to feel welcomed in. He doesn't know much about his background only that his creator made him to test his experiments on. Noah feels like something is missing in his life so he escapes and goes out to search for a place he belongs.

He finds groups of people in places like parks taking pictures. This would include children his age and couples with children. The majority of the people aren't able to see him since their families are completed. When he attempts to speak to them they don't notice him until their pictures are looked at. . James and Jane a couple without children see him and welcome him into their photo as well as their home. For Noah this is his way of knowing these are the people he belongs with. For the couple they finally feels like their family is completed.
